ROYAL SOCIETY OF NEW SOUTH WALES

EDGEWORTH DAVID MEDAL NOMINATION FORM

The Edgeworth David Medal is awarded each year for distinguished contributions by a young scientist under the age of thirty-five (35) years on 1 January in the year in which the medal is awarded, for work done mainly in Australia or its territories, or contributing to the advancement of Australian science.

The medal is named after the pioneering geologist and longstanding supporter of the Society, Sir Edgeworth David FRS, who wrote the first comprehensive record of the geology of Australia. In September 1942, Henry Ferdinand Halloran, who had joined the Society in 1892, decided to celebrate his jubilee as a member by making a donation to the Society. In May 1943 the Council decided to use some of Henry Halloran's gift to establish the Edgeworth David Medal, to be awarded annually to scientists under the age of 35 years.

All Royal Society of New South Wales awards are assessed relative to opportunity.

Please complete the details on this form and return together with a curriculum vitae and attached letters of nomination and referee statement to awards-nominations@royalsoc.org.au by 30th September 2021.

All nominees must be under the age of 35 on the 1st January 2021.
